Housemate report

Across three years, AP has needed reminders for rent and chores, begins many household projects, talks over others when excited, and paces during conversations. Anxiety increases the pattern but it is also visible during relaxed periods.

Supervisor report

AP attends supervision punctually with polished work and contributes thoughtful ideas. The supervisor has not observed marked disorganisation or restlessness and considers outward academic functioning strong.

Context for discrepancy

AP reports spending disproportionate hours preparing, using multiple reminders, losing sleep near deadlines, and requesting extensions. The supervisor sees final outputs rather than preparation or home functioning.

Strengths and risk

Both reporters describe AP as creative, caring, and committed. Neither reports intoxication, mania, psychosis, or acute safety concerns.
